"Can adult men make friends… if the universe depends on it?" In an interview with Coy Jandreau in March, this is what co-director Phil Lord says that Project: Hail Mary is truly about. "And the answer is: probably!"

INTRODUCTION DETAIL

Project Hail Mary is a masterpiece of a film that tells the story of one man and one alien in their attempts to stop the sun from dying. It is my favorite movie of all time - I read the book four times, have seen the movie 3 and a half times, and am counting down the days until my pre-ordered physical copy arrives — 35 days left, by the way.

When you watch this film, you can see that its creators loved it dearly too - from the acting choices to the character design to the set design - every piece of this movie was made with a deep love and respect for the book it's based on and the story it was meant to tell.

CONCLUSION DETAIL

At its core, Project: Hail Mary is a story of hope, friendship, bravery, and having passion for what you love - and it's obvious from watching the film that its creators loved it. From the actors, to the character designers, to the set designers - everyone who had a hand in this movie wanted to do the story justice - and they succeeded.

Project: Hail Mary is a masterpiece of a movie, and my hope is that you will be inspired to watch this movie and fall in love with it, as I and the creators of this movie already have. You still have 35 days to preorder the blue-ray, by the way!
